Home cultivation and processing Santaverde products contain our self-cultivated, pure aloe vera juice, which comes directly from our crops in Andalusia. We have been cultivating organic aloe vera in the mild climates of southernmost Europe for over 25 years, harvesting leaves with an unusually high content of Aloverose. The reason for this lies in the consistent organic cultivation, the enduring soil maintenance and the strict selection of fresh leaf fillets during processing. We monitor the purity and quality of our products from the plants' cultivation until the juice has been bottled and is ready to drink.
